“How to Be the Best Advocate for Your Gifted Child...
Making the System Work for You”

Guest Speaker: Mary McInerney

It's the beginning of another year and there are so many unanswered questions: What kind of educational options does my school provide? Will my child be in a classroom with a teacher who knows and understands giftedness? Will it be a productive year? Is there anything we, as parents can do?

Join us and learn a variety of strategies that will facilitate positive advocacy for your child. Discover what your particular system offers, how to get more from the system, and how to provide outside support in order for your child to achieve optimal success.

Mary McInerney has received her BA in Elementary Education at the City College of New York, and her MA in gifted Education at the College of New Rochelle. She holds Certifications in both Gifted Education as well as in Teaching Literacy. She has a number of years teaching in New York's elementary schools as well as at the graduate level for gifted education. She has extensive experience in consulting for numerous school districts in the area and has traveled internationally specializing in identifying and accommodating for gifts and talents in students. Co-author of Interest Centers-Pathways to Differentiation.
